

From: Brian Radmin [e-mail redacted]
Sent: Friday, September 24, 2010 1:41 PM
To: Bilski_Guidance
Cc: [e-mail redacted]
Subject: Patent Feedback

Please strongly consider prohibiting the further issuance of software patents as they inhibit innovation and progress.

Additionally, they are generally so vague and abstract as to make them completely subjective, concomitantly making them negligible (as there are many patents overlapping scope) and dangerous to industry as a whole - as their misinterpretation can have horrific implications on the industry as a whole.

It is no secret that Sun engineers made a competition out of seeing who could get the most ridiculous patent approved - the system is broken and now is the time and opportunity to begin to right the ship.

Thank you for your time and consideration,

Brian Radmin

PaperDrop Imaging - Revolutionizing real estate... one page at a time.
T: 888.820.3767 x704
E: [e-mail redacted]
W: www.paperdrop.com